

COLLABORATION POLICY

Issue Date: June 21, 2024

Rationale

The Rocky Mountain Section of AWWA (RMSAWWA or Section) frequently encounters the question of whether it should collaborate with another entity in some fashion. Potential collaboration may range from simple (such as publicizing another organization's event to our members or exchanging a complimentary exhibit booth) to complex (such as a jointly planned and implemented conference, educational enterprise, or certification). The forms of agreement to collaborate may fall along a similar range, from an informal e-mail agreement to take some action, to a legal agreement with formal approval by each party's governing board. Collaboration may be initiated by others approaching the Section, or by the Section seeking the collaboration of others. This policy is intended to provide guidelines for the decision about entering into a collaborative arrangement with other organizations and to monitor that the Section abides by the terms of the AWWA affiliation agreement.

Factors For and Against Collaboration

The decision to collaborate or not is by its nature somewhat subjective, because some of the factors that should be considered are subjective and not easily or readily measured. The factors listed here represent common aspects of a decision, but there may be other factors besides those listed below that may be considered.

Events, Conferences and Trainings:

(1) Organizational Factors:

- a. Is the organization proposed for collaboration a competitor? Does the organization provide similar or the same services as RMSAWWA? Is the organization competing with RMSAWWA for members or training dollars? If the answer is yes to any of these questions, the collaboration warrants extra scrutiny and diligence, and approval by the full RMSAWWA Governing Board.
- b. Would the collaboration enhance the strength, reputation, membership, or brand of the Section in any foreseeable way, or would it diminish the Section in these ways?
- c. What does the potential collaborating organization offer that RMSAWWA cannot accomplish by itself?

- d. Does RMSAWWA have the resources required to participate in this collaboration?
- e. Does the other organization have the resources required to participate in this collaboration?
- f. Does the collaboration offer an opportunity to increase the capacity (reputation, leadership, knowledge, etc.) of a component part of the Section, such as a committee, an individual leader or utility member, without diminishing any other component?
- g. Does the collaboration align with established goals of the current RMSAWWA strategic plan?

(2) Transactional Factors:

- a. What is the expected duration and what number of organizational resources—staff or volunteer time, money, etc.—would the collaboration require, and are sufficient resources available to fulfill the obligation?
- b. How involved is the decision process, in terms of the required amount of preparation (research, writing, legal review, coordination with Section or Association leadership, etc.)?
- c. Does the other party have the necessary resources and commitment to make the collaboration successful?

(3) Risk/Reward Factors:

- a. Have potential risks and non-alignment with RMSAWWA Governing Documents been identified and evaluated? (Risks include but not limited to loss of members, negative publicity, net financial loss, dilution of RMSAWWA or AWWA brand). What is the level of those risks / exposure?
- b. What are the tangible rewards to be derived from the collaboration (such as revenue, members, positive publicity, etc.)?
- c. What intangible rewards can reasonably be expected to be derived from the collaboration (such as improved relationships, future opportunities, etc.)?
- d. Does the proposed revenue split fairly reflect the resources the Section would have to devote for the event(s) to be successful?

Process for Evaluating Potential Collaborations:

(1) Identification

- a. Proponents of collaborative events, trainings, or other efforts shall submit information to the appropriate Committee Chair, who shall prepare the following information and submit to the Executive Director and Governing Board liaison:
 - Name of project/event/training
 - Purpose of project/event/training
 - Proposed collaboration partner
 - Proposed terms of collaboration
 - Committee Chair must articulate how the benefits to the Section, and why collaboration is needed to achieve these benefits. Committee Chair is the lead in communicating with Executive Director and Governing Board liaison committee on the proposal.
 - Completed collaboration matrix (unless request is from an outside organization in which case the Executive Director or their delegate will complete the matrix)
 - Collaboration opportunities originating outside of the committee structure will be referred to the Executive Director for consideration and processing.

(2) Timing

- a. Collaboration proposals should be submitted as part of the Committee's annual work plan.
- b. The Section may be willing to make exceptions to this timing requirement for proposed collaborations that arise during the year depending on:
 1. Capacity for staff and approving authorities consider the proposal; and
 2. Level of potential benefit to the Section; and
 3. Time urgency.
- c. Proposals not approved mid-year can be proposed by the Committee in the work plan for the following year, as applicable.

- (3) The Executive Director or his/her designee shall assess any potential collaboration with another organization against the organizational, transactional, and value/reward factors, as well as any others uniquely relevant to the specific case. The potential collaboration will be categorized as a Low, Medium, or High degree collaboration, and the Executive Director or his/her designee will take the appropriate actions indicated. In each instance, the Executive Director or his/her designee will consult with relevant committee(s) about any support or concerns, and to facilitate the committee(s) involvement.
